RELATIONSHIPS

RELATIONSHIPS

The heart of leadership, whether at home, at work, or even in our families, is all about relationships. Relationships are often described as “the good, the bad, and the ugly!” God is a relational God and has designed us as relational beings. Unfortunately, sin messed everything up. Because of that, friendships are broken, families are torn apart, communities are divided, and countries go to war. Some have called this time in history “the death of civility.”

Amidst the residue, junk, and garbage from broken relationships, there is hope. There is a path towards restoration. Marriages can be made whole. Families can be reunited. Friendships can be renewed.

In Romans 12-16, a great framework for relational healing is presented. Tough issues are tackled, such as:

- How to live with impossible people.
- Dealing with life’s deepest hurts and relationship failures.
- What to do when your best effort doesn’t work.
- Knowing and learning what to do with the greatest relationship killer.

There are no perfect families. There are no perfect children. There are no perfect people. Yet each of us can move towards healing from damaged relationships. I’m excited about what the Word has been teaching me, and I’m honored to share it with you.

Yours for Healthy Relationships,
Pastor Dave

RELATIONSHIPS

5. Healing for Damaged Relationships

June 9, 2019 | Romans 12:9-21

Moving parts can cause friction. Friction creates heat, and heat can cause damage. That's the way it often works in our relationships. Whether it's with a friend, at church, at work, with a neighbor or in our family, it's easy to relationships to become strained. Because God is a God of relationships, He desires His children to work towards healthy relationships. That means for us to take the right steps towards repairing damaged relationships.

Moving Towards Healing—Romans 12:18

1. Commit to _____.

The key phrase: "As far as it _____!"

2. Engage healing with _____.—Romans 12:16

Here are two questions to ask yourself:

- What part of this don't I _____?
- What part of this should I _____?

3. Be _____ and _____ with your words.—Romans 12:14

When we feel _____, we tend to _____, then _____, and ultimately _____ whomever hurt us.

Why pray for those who hurt us?

I can't change another person's heart—_____!

4. Resist _____; embrace _____.

—Romans 12:17-21, Deuteronomy 32:34-35

So what does this mean to heap burning coals on one's head?

The first emotion in another caused by good to him may be one of _____.

Let God take care of _____. You take care of giving _____.
